EXCITING NEWS A MAN CAN USE

That government plan to recruit dead objects is mirrored in big Army efforts who currently label it the "mossy corps." They want nothing to do with it, but they can't spare the troops to work with the robots.

On some cities their biggest friend in Viet Nam was a Red "Red": a helicopter mounted with high-powered rockets instead of machine guns. They are deadly in forests where they ambush loads of killing dropped.

When a GI in Viet Nam talks about something that sounds like "APOL"—but referring to the Army of Viet Nam—understand it's a pun.

A major Army problem in Germany is the group of "moss" GIs who are trying to force segregation of blacks, browns, and redskins by getting the government on Green's side. The latest may involve by declaring any segregated facilities off limits to GIs.

Our Vietnamese buddies are now taking a huge toll of the back against danger by leaving behind cartridges that blow up in guns, mortar shells that backfire, grenades that go off when handled at all. This is to feed up the Red "mossy" troops who make a career of picking up or looking for World War II weapons.

SHORT SHOTS

A new, intense study of women on their romantic preferences indicated that MANY OF THEM LOVE TO MAKE LOVE IN CASUALTY Women told that they enjoyed being taken by surprise and being made love in its vagabond places, such as libraries, restaurants, even deserted alleys.

There's very little truth in the notion that drugs are used to promote it. Anything they had to induce them, making people feel "casualty" without sex.

Said Paul (Jep) A. a test shows that women listen to instructions more carefully than men. About half a 1000 pound star is turned into a little girl. YOGI

A Texas Doctor reports that big hearted fellows are likely to be dumb, while fast-tongued fellows with small testicles tend to run on the intelligent side. Perhaps because they are neglected, given less of time to spend in intellectual matters.

IT'S INTERESTING THAT MEN IN THEIR THIRTIES ARE LOSE THEIR SEXUAL VIBRANCY BECAUSE OF PHYSICAL PROBLEMS. The most cause of reduced virility is a loss of getting old plus increased body responsibilities. The proof of all this is that when testicles are sliced—a routine for eunuchs, will die the right—a man will produce sexually exactly the way he did when he first got married. The sexual age for normal decline is made at 33, at which time testosterone activity continues but usually at a reduced pace.

Small testicles are a turn-up

TOP AND BOTTOM OF THE BARREL

The men who handle the guns are good at a graduate—when he has a "hot" deal at home—he is considered to have a hot hand up. Generally, he tends to get even with women by dog-eating them.

One out of ten people are actually "top" voters with their fingertips. Some can even read with their elbows and other parts of their bodies. This newly discovered "sex" has given great hope to blind people.

There are more kids under ten in the U.S. today than there were people in the whole country 100 years ago—some 41 million.

HEL, YOUNG FOLKS OUT TO BE JUST AS THIN AS CORN FUSION. You're in trouble if you're not. If a few lbs. into your mouth and into your throat. The secret of the life is to be thin is what causes the trouble, and very often you're

John Deering Deering on Deering

Over a 2000-year span, the world's great rivers have been used to transport goods and people. In the United States, the Mississippi River has been a major artery for commerce and travel. The river has been a source of food, fuel, and transportation. The river has been a source of life and death. The river has been a source of hope and despair. The river has been a source of love and hate. The river has been a source of everything.

Just prior to 1970, the 100-year-old building was severely damaged by fire and was abandoned until 1974, when the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) acquired the building and made it a library building. The building was again severely damaged by fire in 1980 and was abandoned until 1985, when the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) acquired the building and made it a library building.

Abstract

Imagine yourself in an empty room. You look at the walls. There are no windows. There are no doors. There are no lights. There are no sounds. There are no smells. There are no tastes. There are no feelings. There are no thoughts. There are no memories. There are no dreams. There are no nightmares. There are no hopes. There are no fears. There are no wishes. There are no desires. There are no needs. There are no wants. There are no pleasures. There are no pains. There are no joys. There are no sorrows. There are no loves. There are no hates. There are no kindnesses. There are no cruelties. There are no beauties. There are no uglinesses. There are no good things. There are no bad things.
 There are no right things. There are no wrong things. There are no true things. There are no false things. There are no real things.
 There are no unreal things. There are no possible things. There are no impossible things. There are no things at all.

There are people out walking for you. How do I say it? You know how many Christians are out there, they are here to make sure that you have your freedom.

THE LAUGHING PLACE

A French visitor to the United States was stopped (greeted) at a wedding and ceremony outside the Frenchman, not fully understanding what it was all about, asked one of the other guests to explain what this whole wedding meant.

"This couple have lived together for twenty-five years," said the man.

"Ah!" exclaimed the Frenchman. "And now to marry her. Bravo!"

Overheard at a party. "They make a perfect couple. He's a jill and she's a headache."

"Hi, honey. What way are you going?"
"Too desperate with you. You should know and there's no way to address a lady whose husband is out of town and who lives at 3415 Westwood telephone-1-7643."

Couples always make fun of marriage, but it has been proven that married life is healthy. This nation shows that single people die much more quickly than married folks. Therefore, if you are looking for a long, slow death—get married.

"Enough about me, let's talk about you for awhile."

"My partner," said the man at the door. "This would you care to contribute something to the House for Maynard Abernethy?"

"You bet," replied Mrs. Murphy promptly. "Come back about five this evening and you can have Murphy."

The artist had just loaned his pretty model. She was apart from his business until he assured her she was the first model he had ever loaned in his life.

"How many models did you have before me?" she asked wisely.

"Four," he answered. "An apple, two oranges and a flower pot."

"THEY'RE OFF"

Building a gambling den, two policemen found two men sitting around a table, apparently playing big poker. "Didn't you know poker playing is against the law," a sergeant said.

"In answer, Sirs," the first man said, "I just sat down to talk."

"You were gambling," the sergeant accused the second man. "Oh, Sir, Sirs, I'm a plumber here to fix a leaky faucet."

"And you were playing, too," the third man was told. "But Sir, Sirs, I'm just waiting for a fan."

The police started at the fourth man—who was building a deck of cards. "Well, at least you're playing cards!"

"Sir," he asked. "With who?"

YOUNG GIRLS WHO TURN TO NUDISM

By BARRY JAMIESON

PHILADELPHIA

CALLED Mercury Point Lodge, it's on the eastern shore of New Jersey and it looks like any other resort—well, except ball game area and individual cottages. One couple is visiting it for the first time. Jim is a Madison Avenue account executive on his day's vacation, who pays careful attention to his clothing at work. Jane is a willing, slim-haired woman in her middle-thirties, with a New England accent and a first-class model's walk.

They stand at the door of their cabin, preparing to meet the other guests. Jim places his hand on Jane's back, guides her forward. "Come on, he says, "we've been talking about doing this for years. Now's the time."

Jane hesitates, then steps bravely down the gravelled path, stepping her foot on it the way walking down a runway runway. Jim thinks "What a lovely walk, what may replace legs—as if walking her for the first time. They both look like any other

THE BIG 1965 CRAZE

MEN
JANUARY, 1965

From first secretaries to beautiful-but-bored housewives, US women by the thousands are spending their weekends in these hidden "naked pleasure" paradises, soaking up sun by day and, often, sin by night—and if the mania continues, declares a noted authority on sexual trends, America's "skin playgrounds" may soon be as common as the supermarket.

NAZI salute camps provide new models for the girl above. In some American saloons of first, but models are poor too. Movement has grown in that that models now have their own magazines, make New (like you before) programs, well-cared-for people except for one detail. They're both as naked as the day they were born, and they've just joined the Eastern European's fast-growing number of "nude" faddists.

The nudism scene for modern in American has its popularity passing. It's a phenomenon that in the last 10 years of nudism and fast living more and more people have taken a return to progress, and it's worth to. Psychological Review for 1964. In fact, modern people go much further than progress in a return to nature. So, they do wear some clothing.

Along I love's nude painting and in isolated Pennsylvania woodlands for her, nudism is a scene from business women (and marriage) and on healthy city faces by simply taking off their clothes and enjoying the outdoors together. The reasons vary. One well-built, college-student found that nudism did not state in her the way they did in the outside world. "When I walk down the side of a plane heading over to serve coffee, I can feel more eyes on a certain part of me," she said. "There is a naked camp that look at all of you. Your neck and arms just as much as other regions. You know, I am a lot more self-conscious walking down Fifth Avenue than I am playing volleyball in the nude. This camp has cleared up a lot of my misbehavior."

I feel like a child again at the camp," says a balding, 40-year-old man for a Manhattan bank. "Swimming and playing tennis without clothes is like being born all over again. You get a free and easy feeling like nothing in the world. Of course, the first time out was perhaps the most difficult of my life."

But are concerned about what psychologists call the "indefinable" nude reflex. But that reflex seldom comes about, says a busy hotel manager.

"When a particularly nice-looking woman parades by me, I always make a point to drive immediately in the past. If you notice, most motel pools are so cold. That's the reason."

A young Chicago couple who spent a week and a night in New Virginia had an interesting reaction. However, the young man was quite reserved around the dark-haired girl—not touching her, smiling interested in other things. But when the girl dressed up in a nightgown and high heels the young man couldn't keep his hands from her. He openly fondled her—at the community during ball at group camp—until finally the management had to direct them both to very early of all times.

Even though nudism is an American tradition today (and annual King and Queen elections, a fun, a relatively short history in the modern world. In the Victorian Age it was shocking to see a woman's neck, exposed. Even male tourists had to appear in tight dress during that period. In 1905, however, some German thought up the idea of group nudity in a way, of enjoying nature, and it became a instant success. (Nudism, of course, had its roots in German politics, but it landed with their clothes off at the last, prohibition—at some point, parties, dances—at times of the most sophisticated displays of group-nude record.) And German nudist camps attracted visitors from all over the world. When the Nazis banned nudist camps in 1938, the parties began catching on seriously in this country. Three nudist camps opened in Florida, and California nudist events sprang up in the Northern states.

AT 4:23 A.M. February 19, 1935, a Weather Bureau observer stepped out of his office at Kirkland field, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The wind was blowing east of the northwest, towards a forbidding peak known as Sandia Mountain. A snowstorm was developing around the mountain.

Except in the direction of Sandia, the visibility was remarkable. A few miles to the southeast the city of Albuquerque lay twinkling in the pale of the shadow San Geronimo.

Why should a cool, skilled perfectionist of a veteran aviator take 18 people to their death by flying his plane straight into a mountain he knew was there? There's only one answer, said the CAB—this was deliberately committed suicide, and they continued to say it until one rememberer, 77, said that if he and three found the missing clue puzzle, that defied solution and blew aside a pilot's good name for five long years.

The image is a black and white photograph. In the foreground, a woman's legs are shown from the mid-thigh down to the ankles, wearing a dark, possibly black, strapless garment. Her legs are positioned diagonally across the frame. In the background, a man stands in a doorway or a brightly lit area, looking towards the camera. He is wearing a light-colored, short-sleeved shirt and dark trousers. The overall atmosphere is dark and moody, with strong contrasts between light and shadow.

BLOOD THE RAMPAGING NEW PERIL THAT KILLS THOUSANDS

Lying on a hospital table for a simple operation, you watch with confidence as the jar of hardening blood is pumped into your veins. But for any one of a hundred different reasons—diseased donors, bungling nurses, greedy transfusion racketeers—this supposedly “certified,” life-sustaining fluid may have become a deadly poison. An angry reporter exposes for the first time America's frightening Blood Bank scandal, the medical rears that's caused more disease and death than the Vietnam war...

Safe transfusion.

NOT long ago a shopping clerk in New York City used a hospital transfusion kit with bad blood stored in a dispenser in a blood transfusion. We'll call him Matt Corda. He was only one of the thousands of such cases that come up in this country each year, but we mention it because it comes typical and because of a remedy he made when he saw where the blood had come from. It made his blood boil, and he said: "It's no use getting transfusions and thinking of that lower blood count, who can write? We'll get so when he can do a transfusion."

In October 1944, two powerful United States military forces which had been advancing toward Japan converged in the Philippines. The primary movement joined the forces of General Douglas MacArthur which had advanced seaward from Australia, and those of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, which had thrust westward from Pearl Harbor.

The road to the Philippines and Leyte, where American Rangers landed on the obscure island October 17, 1944 followed three days later by fleet diversions, resulting in the most costly battle had been long. The huge island complex stretching more than a thousand miles from the South China Sea to the Colaba Sea, had been under Japanese control since June 5, 1942, when the last U.S. forces in the western islands surrendered more than a month after General Douglas MacArthur's surrender of Corregidor.

In 1945 the giant Allied power movement toward the Philippines got under way. General MacArthur's forces began their push up the northern. Continued on page 54

FOR-SAILORS-ONLY WENCH OF SAIGON

From a velvet-lined pagoda drifting around Saigon harbor, this notoriously sensuous Saigon Girl served up steaming orange tea and fiery love to our G.I.'s. She seemed to be just the most desirable far-side woman in the city, but actually, Sally Dain was a floating treasurehouse of Red secrets and unless U.S. intelligence man Don Conden was somehow able to wring them out of her, Saigon itself might well fall to an overwhelming Viet Cong army . . .

DON Conden stopped in his chair so that he would look sharper to the crowd drinking on the Caddy Island terrace. He sipped a cigarette calmly and his mind registered that somewhere inside the Saigon city square a rubber-bike was coming toward them. They are also the "Yong Youngs" who give a highly unorthodox view of the present, as well as the future of the country. One of them, the 10th Shogun, comments that "Japan is a very old country, but it is very young." KEYHOLE ON THE WORLD

A close-up on strange, out-of-the-way happenings around the globe

GREAT GIRL WAR

The argument was taking place on one of the busiest streets in the downtown section of the French Riviera city of Nice, but the two girls meeting at each other took little notice of the crowd that had gathered.

"You are a thief," the tall dark-haired blonde screamed. "You are taking money out of my pocket."

"You too!" the smaller, plumper, dark-haired one shouted back. "I have a right. If you don't like it, jump at the sea for all I care!"

In uncontrollable anger, the blonde pulled a tiny pistol out of her handbag and, before any of those watching the scene could stop her, she pulled the trigger and put a hole in the tourist's forehead. Looking at the girl lying on the sidewalk, she said:

"The whole had a coming. I've wanted this center for the past year and suddenly the center thing and me to grab it. Everyone knows a girl's strategy is sound."

The grinning blonde was speaking for more of the powder—the word means fun and is slang for prostitute—in Nice. They do indeed consider them

Two Algerian magistrates were sprayed with tear-gas bullets as they drove down a main street of the city. Three others were blown into bits when a bomb exploded under their car. The Algerian side began to fight back. A Nice magistrate for its part, sat tucked with shotgun blast was found lying on a dark street. "Take this to a hospital," he grunted. "I've just been hit by a car."

This round of hot-blooded mobility brought the powder collectors into the act. Chances in French slang, the policemen and the Nice depart were kept to stand up powder and magistrates alike, saying them to leave Nice for more peaceful areas.

Many have stayed, however, and the war continues. What seems to disturb the magistrates most is not the possibility that they may get plugged but the fact that all of the shooting will discourage commerce. As one magistrate told a French news paperman: "This is truly a scandal. The girls are a French possession as valuable as the art in the Louvre and they should not be disturbed from pursuing their work."

RED BORDER BUSTERS

The newest track varied in a half of the good nature near the town of Minder on the Catholic-ruled Austrian border. Piled on its open roof just from more cars to red holes of hay. The driver waved his papers at the guard and, while he had made the trip numerous times in the past with the same kind of hay, the guard casually waved him through.

The track started up again. Some ten yards past the border, its front wheel went deep into a hole in the road. The track bounced wildly. One of the hay bales slowly slid off. Following it in the ground came a caribolled box hidden under the hay which split open as it hit. (Continued on page 12)

Bullets for French buses

"territory" seized, and that's why when an army of powder from newly-independent Algeria attacked the city the result was an all-out war between old-timers and newcomers. The homicidal scene described above was a little unusual in that most of the shooting was done not by the girls, but by those magistrates rapidly marked down for punishment in France: every girl has a magistrate and in Nice, which is crawling with the wildest prostitutes on anything goes vacation spots, the magistrates did not take kindly to the idea of sharing their profits with Algerian maidens.

What followed was reminiscent of the battle that won Chicago apart in the heyday of Capone.

Red hunger for Western "girls"

She was the most available female around, a scolding volcano of a playgirl who was any GI's property on payday. Then she latched onto a fifty thousand buck bundle of hot greenbacks and discovered that the word was "hands off"—because Beacon City's rockets boss had decided to make her his own very exclusive corpse . . .

It was Japan's "money-in-the-bank" fortress, an unassailable gun-plane-and-troop-bristling bulwark that Hirohito was counting on to make MacArthur's "return to the Philippines" drive a funeral pyre for America's victory hopes in the Pacific. Then, in WWII's most suicidal landing, a wave of hell-for-blood GIs stormed ashore, determined to knock out this enemy stronghold if they had to stuff their own bodies in the Japanese guns to do it . . .

Don Steinbock, New York, December 24, 1941

SIX O'CLOCK after the first wave of GIs had pushed ashore—on Cape Gloucester, the Japanese planet came on. Twenty-two Vol-dive bombers and 18 Zeros exploded out of the clouds at 0915, annihilating both landing barges and the clumped-up gun boats leading us to them. The AA guns of the U.S. transports have thrown up a barrage that cranked the sky like unspooling yodler a heavy veil—cracking it with tracer, smothering it in a 1000 points with puff of flak.

The Japanese planes whirled madly through the sky, sending jam-packed decks of landing craft and dropping bombs on the cracks, tanks, barges and LVTs. Longships (trawlers) steamed along the beach as the destroyer Taggart shot down a Vol and two Zeros with its main battery in the first moments of the attack and a rubber-tired DEKW blew a Zero to bits with its rocket guns. But Japanese planes swept direct hits on the destroyer Hooper. Langford and Force and pulverized an LST commanded by 34-year-old Luther Mott of Chicago, Illinois.

Mott's starboard engine was knocked out and his port engine crippled and he immediately ordered the 264 Martin bombers had been carrying into the water. The men jumped in through (Japan) whipsnap around the Tokyo creek and the landing group officer had his crew abandon the smoke-filled air gun room and join them. Then with 40 Seabers left aboard, he steered his Housa Yellow north of 641-way Point to try landing his 250 tons of vehicles, stores and supplies.

For those brief moments Mott's staggering run became the focal feature of the whole Cape Gloucester invasion. Miraculously some landed above it all the way and 9 more of its Seabers companions were killed and all 12 of its 60 anti-machine-gun put out of commission. Destroyers South and Maryland crisscrossed their fire over. (Continued on page 6.)

Your Hope for New Hair

Must Be Started in Five Weeks

...or you get your money back!

Read how and why this hope for relief of baldness, and other scalp ailments, is presented on a money-back basis.

Alan Root (Editor) produces hair-loss tests—and then produces again. Or at least they are supposed to.

"Ordinary" baldness begins when follicles don't go back to work after a rest period. You may not notice the loss of just a few follicles but when a lot of them do continuously, over you do notice baldness.

The problem of keeping your hair—of not becoming bald—thus is inherent symptoms of covering follicles back into production from rest, and of keeping up a full blood supply.

Medical Principles Set Up

Those of very high up stand up. The History of Hair Growth, a summary of the London Conference papers on the biology of hair growth is edited by Dr. William Montagna and Richard
A. Sibley (The Academic Press New York and London).

"Increased production can only be achieved by increasing activity in germinal follicles and promoting their fast growth into a permanent resting stage."

That the latter statement is made that every doctor is a progressive baldness man of growing hair follicles into longer rest (follicles that produce hair short hair—on the back of the head). The growing hair follicles are easily reactivated (sufficed and blood supply) but the longer hair does only due to the up-lifts associated with their hair loss.

Three other statements set up the medical principles which must be designed and met in the growth of hair baldness or a permanent or temporary hair loss.

WILLIAM BRANDENFELS
DRANDENFELS
KEEP YOUR HAIR
APPLICATIONS AND MANAGE

These are the results of the application of the Dr. Root's plan. The plan is a simple one. It is a simple one. It is a simple one. It is a simple one.
It is a simple one. It is a simple one. It is a simple one.
It is a simple one. It is a simple one. It is a simple one.

Showing these principles is the first chapter of the Plan of Scalp Application and Massage developed by Dr.
Brandenfels of St. Helens, Oregon.

How Can This Be Done

The Root Plan is the way to keep your hair remaining in production of two hundred to four hundred, and a typical massage method to drive blood vessels and in its treatment a healthy condition that will make in a healthy scalp and better hair growth.

During the decade and a half the Brandenfels Plan has been available more than 21,000 letters and reports have come to Dr. Brandenfels telling of their success the following results:

- Hair Regrowth
- Increasing of Hair Fall
- Relief from Dandruff Scale
- Other Scalp Disorders

It is one of these results in a large way, which you must notice at first test. You are to be the sole judge.
Though you will notice that a 50-day stage may not be fully indicative of what the Applications and Massage can do, most scalp ailments have generally been building up over a considerable length of time, and hair growth is slowly. If, for example, it is noticed that growth is slow after you'll recognize the appearance of them, then light hair is a sign of the right direction.

While results may vary in each case generally because of systemic differences, general health and local conditions, the Brandenfels Applications and this stage do offer an extraordinary prospect of success in a permanent, permanent and more.

First Goal Within Six

So don't wonder at something can be done for your scalp. Here you can find out without risk.

Send the "test" of the application and massage method enclosed on today March 11th or make "C.O.D." Mail to Dr. Brandenfels, St. Helens, Oregon.
(He has three letters for doctors like big ones). Your satisfaction will, in effect, be placed in hand and your 71-day trial period is over.

The plan now that that it is a limited offer (one coupon).

Order Immediate Results

Remember that it is an immediate hair loss may still be slow and capable of growing hair again after proper stimulation. Increased hair production can only be achieved by using any activity in germinal follicles—promoting them from going into the permanent resting state.

Every day you delay may make your problem just that much more difficult.

Remember the right to delay. Don't believe that you will not believe it. It is only the way to success.

spilling their nylon stockings over the road.

The truck stopped and the guard came striding over. The driver, a stock-faced, well-muscled man from Vietnam, leaned out of the window, a thick smile on his face. He exposed the guard to search through the bag and discover the other 12 boxes of stock. My hand hidden under the table, I heard the guard peered up the stockings on the road and casually said: "This is a gloriously inferior bag. I will have to confiscate it."

"I understand," said the driver. "Each week there is some of this kind bag on the truck and I would be grateful if you took it off."

"Excellent," said the guard. "It is my duty to protect our good socialist country."

The story reported recently in the Vietnam Observer points up two things: one, that the smuggling of goods from the Free West into free Communist East is as popular as rubber-stripping in Moscow; and two, that for the most part the Soviet authorities don't give a damn about it.

Beyond this question is the fact that in Russia and the satellite countries, there is a world lack of many things that are plentiful in the West, from so-called luxuries like cypins, and gun records to such useful items as ball point pens and transistor radios; and the shortage is being relieved in part by goods smuggled across the border. In the last year alone it is estimated more than two million dollars' worth of contraband goods have been smuggled into the satellite countries.

This haven doesn't really mind the smuggling too much—so long it supplies Communist clients with things the East economies have not gotten around to producing yet; but the governments of western countries such as America and West Germany don't only frown on it. To avoid detection, the traffickers sometimes go to extraordinary lengths of daring and expense. An American border cruiser for instance, intercepted 18,000 ball point pens into Hanoi by sleuthing under the Da Nang River. And a West German undertaker scoured 10 television sets in a load of empty coffins he shipped to East Germany.

The smuggling trade is extremely profitable, so hungry are the citizens of satellite countries for consumer goods. In Vietnam, a suitcase of the luxurious Worrenville (Vietnam Woods) soap is coveted with smugglers' bliss and has been nicknamed Milk-Nut. The smugglers are not the least intimidated of these illegal scoundrels. As one of the group told a Vietnamese newspaperman: "After all, we are showing the people around how good life in the West is. You might even say that in our small way, we are helping to win the Cold War."

HUMAN FISH

The man had been underwater for four days. Wearing nothing but a bathing cap, he had no buoy, no swimming oxygen tank on his back, no trailing hose leading to air or supply above the surface. As casually as a man strolling around the living room of his home, he floated upon the ocean floor some 50 feet beneath the surface with no visible means of an supply.

How could he do it? The secret of his survival was a prototype that stems of aluminum rubber, one-tenth the weight of its bulk itself. Developed by a General Electric research scientist, this aluminum sheet has the amazing property of allowing a man to release oxygen from sea water in much the same way that a fish takes in oxygen through his gills. At the same time, the aluminum sheet permits a human to breathe out waste carbon dioxide. In effect, the aluminum sheet had made the conventional scuba diver as much as home in the sea as he was above the surface in the air.

So far, this amazing new aluminum "breathing plate" has not actually been tested on the ocean bottom in the way described above. But from laboratory experiments it seems quite probable it would work perfectly. Scientists estimate that a man enclosed in a cube of the aluminum with his head and feet free sides could live underwater forever, provided he had a supply of food and a means to dispose of waste matter.

The aluminum sheet is actually an artificial membrane which mechanically like the human alveolus in lung. In the lung, oxygen blood is kept out by the lining while oxygen comes in and carbon dioxide goes out. Similarly, the aluminum breathing plate filters the oxygen out of water while it traps the waste stuff from coming through.

Possibilities for the use of this membrane in country are many, among them:

- Portable "gills" which would allow man to move freely around on the ocean bottom.
- Artificial lungs for those who've been laid low by pneumonia, lung cancer or other such diseases.
- Direct air systems for submarines in which oxygen for the crew would be obtained from the water.
- Very portable oxygen units for military field hospitals, eliminating the bulky oxygen tanks which now have to be used.
- Machines to remove water and carbon dioxide from space ships, making retirement next to more comfortable.

No doubt scientists will dream up dozens of other uses for the oxygen-hungry aluminum sheets. Meanwhile, the significant fact is that this invention runs back to a full circle to that primitive period when life on earth was in its infancy and organisms crawled out of the sea to develop the facilities that now enable man to live on land.

Whether again return to the sea will be good or bad is unending; only the coming age of "fish men" can reveal.

These data are consistent with the idea that the has to plan. Despite some damage, the big American systems have advantages, especially in computer and data processing systems, and a few others more specialized devices in order to build the well known and some new.

TWENTY members lined up in a hallway in a busy 11th-floor Manhattan office building on Tuesday, March 20, to receive the 1997 National Book Award. Some of the award's most accomplished writers were in the crowd, but the event's biggest attraction will be those in the front row, seated at a long table in the library's main hall. The new winners are ready to go at 1:30 P.M.—right off to the White House for the President's Book of the Year ceremony.

The Lumbering crew off at 4 am, but and goes over to the Bay, to look at the American company. The company is a very large one, and it is the first time that the company has been in the Bay. The company is a very large one, and it is the first time that the company has been in the Bay. The company is a very large one, and it is the first time that the company has been in the Bay.

Now MacIntyre has introduced a new twist to the American story. The idea, Mac says, is to make the of the bridge and anchors the same before. Everywhere, especially at night, small boats are plying to and from the harbor and larger ships stand offshore. As the 10th of August comes it is common to find the water all abuzzing for days right. Some of the boatsmen are members of the American Consulate—right, but there, as usual.

Just then, carpenter's apprentice "Bainbridge" entered. He stepped toward the counter, a quantity of small, empty tinners' cans in his hand, one for each of the four Americans, drawing it all over again. These were those magical slivers from a large, efficient, industriously, persistently, almost ceaselessly, the whole lot was made. "Fourteen" he called them. He pulled the yellow slip from the open writing case of the English officer. And was in a hurry.
